

“Wrong Posting” on Myspace could be injurious to your health!

The unique concept of online community to chat, post comments, post photos, and share info about the latest happenings in their world by the members is making social networking on Myspace or Friendster boom with popularity. Young adults find the concept of myspace or Friendster interesting and entertaining.

Potential users create a free account; enter detail information about them and share their site with their friends. Their friends then post comments on the Myspace a reply. The usability of social networking on Myspace or Friendster bears some similarity with the bulletin board in providing information and exchanging thoughts. The users with easy to use tools at their administration can have a site, where they can submit their thoughts, share information and anything that is happening in their life besides making friends with same virtue.

Social networkings like Myspace or Friendster is overwhelmed with different kind of information among which some are really useful and while others are harmful. Very often it has been found that teenagers posting some information which should not be posted and sometimes those information might become threatening for the same. The sharing feature of Myspace or Friendster was initially used for good but due to some wrong posting that should not be spoken publicly just degraded the value of this feature of Myspace. Therefore before posting any information one should take care that few words are enough to shake the ground of peace and spread out agitation and hatred within the community quickly. Generally the teenagers who do not think much about its after affects make these postings which are enough to raise a storm in the community and hurricane in their life. So it is significant for the users to give some thoughts and analyze whether those postings will have good or bad effect.

Users of Myspace or Friendster should understand that though Myspace has provided a feature like bulletin board where you can post your thoughts and comments or any kind of information for free that does not mean that you can post anything especially negatives against any person whom you consider your rival aiming to take your revenge. Though there are several negative sides but still myspace or Friendster proved themselves as one of the hottest social networking sites. Parents are getting alert and are also trying to become good friends guiding them with their knowledge and keeping watch on all their activities because there are maximum chances to get involved in the wrong activities are as they are not so mature to decide what is good and what is bad. Even some schools have implemented rules to put the student run on the correct tract.

About the Author

myspace layout - friendster layout - div layout mspace - myspace layouts

Source: <http://www.tntarticles.com>