

Special Live Black Jack Game Rules

A Blackjack game is a game of possibilities and chance. There are no certain strategies that can guarantee wins. Playing a live black jack game is quite easy, but of course, there are several special rules in blackjack that makes the game more challenging. These rules act as if they are playing with the players' fates. Here are some of the special rules in blackjack that anticipates different occurrences and changes the outcomes considerably.

In a live black jack game, the players and the dealers will be dealt two cards each. The players' cards will be revealed immediately after they are dealt, while only the dealer's first card is revealed. The second card is concealed until the players have made their plays. However, there are instances when the dealer's first card is an ace or a ten. This means that there is a possibility for the dealer to get a blackjack. A blackjack is a hand that sums up to a 21 total card value. In some games, the players are allowed to place insurance bets if the dealer has an ace or a ten. The insurance bets will insure the players against the dealer getting a blackjack. After the insurance bets are placed and the players play their hands, only then will the second card be revealed. When a player places an insurance bet, he will be paid 2:1 in case the dealer gets a blackjack. However, insurance bets are not advisable because even if a dealer gets an ace or a ten, there is still a bigger chance for the player to win more without insurance than with.

To get on with the game, in case the dealer gets an ace or a ten face up card, most casinos check for the blackjack immediately. The players will not be given a chance to play their hands anymore, as the second card is revealed immediately. In case the dealer gets a blackjack, the house automatically collects all the bets and the game officially ends. However, this is not an ordinary blackjack occurrence. The chances of the game turning out like this depends entirely on the rules of the casino or online casino and the rules of the game you chose to join. The blackjack being a game of chance, there are also instances when the dealer gets a blackjack and another player gets a total card value of 21 as well. This will be called a tie or a push, to use the blackjack lingo. A push means that no one wins and no bets are exchanged.

The instances mentioned above are special occurrences that can happen to a live black jack game. These special rules change the game sometimes drastically. As we have learned, a black jack game can even abruptly end and all players plummet quite quickly to a loss. These instances, however, is what makes the black jack a challenging game. Even if these can make the game harder, there is no doubt that these play a role in luring people to the quite popular game.

About the Author

Dan writes original informative articles about many of the live casinos that are now online. Check out the real dealers that serve real live dealer casino games such as roulette, blackjack, and live baccarat.

Source: <http://www.tntarticles.com>