

Make Money Online with Free Paid Surveys

People who yearn to earn money possibly could not achieve it due to several domestic constraints. For those working from home online is a good alternative. There are numerous options available and among them paid surveys happen to be the most popular.

Online surveys have become very popular due to two reasons, online surveys can be done at any time convenient to the person and they have a choice to decide which on line survey they want to work with

The procedure of online survey is that these surveys may be in the form of one page questionnaire or may be multi screen on line surveys. The person who is interested to do the survey has to answer a few simple questions and he gets paid for it. Since the companies will base their decision upon the reply for their product, the answers given should be honest. Since "survival of the fittest" is the motto in this competitive world, companies customize their products to suit the demand of their customers that is based on this feedback of surveys. Online surveys are an important source and therefore the organizations are willing to pay for the online survey respondents.

Online survey respondents can finish their job in a very little time, which are ideal for new mothers, students, housewives etc. These surveys may help to earn some extra money but they do not promise to make a millionaire. The mode of payment varies from organization to organization. They may pay in the form of points that can be redeemed later on or there may be some prizes instead of cash. Online surveys offer anything ranging from $1 to $ 200.

The pros and cons of online surveys should be weighed before deciding. The cons are most of the companies do not pay in cash but in points which can be redeemed later. The person who gave the information will be the most benefited in the whole process. At times, it may even take months or years, as the company will contact only when they think we fit into the right category to take the survey.

Since the job of online survey respondents is first to fill out a questionnaire as a part of the sign up process, by that time the companies would have accumulated most of the data needed without paying anything to the responder. A limit in the number of points must be reached before cashing out the earnings and this limit varies from company to company.

The points received per survey will depend on 2 factors, the urgency of the test (the more urgent the test, the higher the incentive paid) and the length of the survey (the more time needed, the larger the market points awarded).

It is better to start with one company at a time and take two or three days before adding on another. Online surveys are designed in such a way to make them more interesting and enjoyable for on line survey respondents.
