

Samsung F210: Incredible mobile that connects and entertains

Chatting with friends or sending them interesting messages is only two of the most common ways the latest mobile phones are being used. With the incorporation of the best in technology, the latest handsets are being put to uses that were outside the scope of your imagination, even a couple of years back. One such high end mobile phone that comes with advanced connectivity options as well as some of the best features in mobile multimedia is the Samsung F210.

The design of the handset is slick and attractive. A swivel action is all that takes to open the handset. One could easily carry this Samsung mobile from one place to another because of its small dimensions – the handset measures 88 mm x 31 mm x 21 mm. The TFT screen is large and colorful and comes with a resolution of 128 x 240 pixels.

The handset comes with an in-built 2.0 megapixel digital camera that can be used to freeze memorable moments from the kaleidoscope of life. The images captured look all the more attractive in the TFT display of the Samsung F210 handset. Moreover, the images can be sent to compatible handsets and shared quite easily among friends.

You can send and receive emails on the move using the specialised capabilities of your F210 mobile handset from Samsung. You could also listen to the music of your choice using the in-built music player that comes with this handset. All your favourite tracks and chart busters in MP3 and AAC+ file formats can be played using the advanced multimedia capabilities of the handset. Bluetooth compatibility and a large expandable memory are the other two features of the Samsung F210.

This Samsung mobile is now accessible to a wide spectrum of mobile phone users from across the world. This and other Samsung handsets are part of attractive deals and offers and people from different sections of society can easily acquire the handsets at reasonable costs.
