

Looking Sheik as a Bridesmaid

Bridesmaids can look smart and sheik at their girlfriend's or sister's wedding. The bride doesn't have to be the only one who looks radiant on her day.

If you are slim, a straight, slim skirt will look stunning on you, or one that is not only slim but flared on the bottom like a mermaid is perfect for you.

You shorter ladies are better off staying with the slim skirt with one color going all the way to the hem rather than cutting the body in half with the use of a different color which would emphasize the shorter figure.

A full skirt, one flaring out from the waist will suit most young ladies. If modesty is a must, choose a style that higher in the neckline, perhaps with the addition of a little sleeve. The total effect will still add up to a sexy formal dress.

If the upper arm is is a little large, then a small amount of sleeve is a wise choice. Even just a cap sleeve that was shaped as part of the garment will be sufficient.

Bridesmaids, whether slim, short, tall or whatever, you will be looking smart on your friend's wedding day when you choose the perfect gown for your figure type

June Huffman is the owner of Yvonne's Design, an online bridal shop.

<http://www.yvonesdesign.com>

About the Author

Jne Huffman is an expert at fashion designing, sewing and pattern making since 1964.

Source: <http://www.tntarticles.com>